Sutton Town Meeting Transfers Funds for Several Projects

By Terry Barnicle

SUTTON - Voters acted on 15 articles at the February 1 Special Town Meeting held in the Elementary School Auditorium.

Recreation Sites

Article 1 proposed the authorization of a feasibility study, including appraisals, of potential recreation sites for the town under the direction of the Recreation Commission. It was voted unanimously to transfer $5,500 from Free Cash for this purpose.

Hazardous Material

Article 2 sought funds to complete the removal of hazardous material (fuel oil), as required by the Department of Environmental Quality Engineering from the so-called "chicken farm" town-owned property in Manchaug. Selectman Rick LaBonte explained that the tanks have been there for 20-30 years and that this is the final cost of $17,000 spent over the years to clean the site. The transfer of $4160 of available funds in the treasury was voted unanimously.

Sewer Fees

Article 3 asked voters to amend the Public Sewer Bylaw, specifically the section relating to Sewer Privilege Fees, by adding the words "or special" following the word "annual" so that the last sentence of the section would read as follows:

"The fees established therein may be changed from time to time by vote of the Town at any annual or special town meeting."

Finance Committee Chairman Dave Strieby argued that the fees should only be changed at an annual town meeting.

Selectwoman Mary K. Connor said that the purpose of the article was to obtain fees now which might be lost if the town had to wait until the annual meeting.

The motion passed with a few "nays."

Sewer Fee Increase

Article 4 proposed to double the Sewer Fee to $2,500 and remove exemptions for residential and commercial subdivisions.

According to Sewer

Commissioner Dick Ezold, "The fee is now lifetime and too low to cover repairs. Now developers don't have to pay if they get all their hookups done in five years while all other homeowners do. We want them to pay too. This fee is still low compared to other towns in the area," Ezold said.

Selectman Carl Licopoli argued, "The 1978 law establishing the sewer system says that repairs and maintenance are to be paid by user fees. Therefore, I feel that money should be set aside for this purpose."

The article passed on a voice vote.

FinCom Funds

Article 5, which sought a transfer of funds to the Finance Committee reserve account, was passed over as the Finance Committee said additional funds were not needed by them at this time.

Other Additional Funds

Article 6 sought $18,000 for Planning Board Professional Services, $13,935 more for Casualty Insurance, $1,200 more for the Board of Assessors, and $2,000 more for the Selectmen. Strieby felt that, if needed, these amounts could be funded from the Financial Reserve Account.

The motion passed with two "nays" from the Finance Committee.

Earth Removal Board

Article 7 asked voters to broaden the discretionary authority of the Earth Removal Board relative to exemptions from earth removal permits.

Board Chairman Enrico Betti moved to add "as deemed necessary by the Board." The Finance Committee recommended passage to allow the board to operate more efficiently. The motion passed.

Solid Waste Committee

Article 8 asked voters to approve $1,000 to be used by the Solid Waste Disposal Study Committee to start evaluations of alternatives to the landfill when it closes.

Students Told of Financial Responsibilities of Teen Parenting

MILLBURY - Karen Schwartzman (facing students in photo at right), Director of Communications for the Massachusetts Department of Revenue's Child Support Division, recently launched a pilot program designed to teach upper level high school students of the financial responsibilities of teen parenting. Millbury High was the first school visited where Schwartzman, accompanied by a colleague and former Millbury resident, Bonnie Brady-Lucia, enlightened students not only about the tremendous financial burden of rearing a child but also of the support that mothers can expect from the state.

Schwartzman emphasized that the state is now pursuing delinquent fathers who abrogate the financial responsibilities of rearing their children. She also outlined the guidelines which judges must follow in determining the non-custodial parent's contribution. She told the students that the state is now seeking out fathers who refuse to comply with court ordered support.

According to Schwartzman, the state has begun this outreach program because divorce is more common today, because teenagers are more sexually active and because they are seldom told of the enormous financial burden attached to parenting.

It is hoped that this program will encourage teenagers to consider the financial consequences of their actions. In today's dollars, Schwartzman said, it costs approximately $135,000 to raise one child from birth to age 18.

Expresses Appreciation

An Open Letter To the People of Millbury:

I wish to publicly express my appreciation of the honor bestowed on me by my peers in electing me chairperson of the Millbury Arts Lottery Council. More recently I was also chosen to help represent the Central Massachusetts Arts Lottery Councils on the State level.

Now I must explain that because of later development, I can no longer carry out the responsibilities of these positions. It is indeed ironic that the activities that mean so much to me can also be the most harmful to my health.

Please keep up the good work you are doing with your arts projects.

Jean M. Peterson, a.k.a. Jeanie

Thank You...

The Roger V. Godbout Family wishes to thank all the friends and neighbors for their love and remembrances during our recent sorrow.

Millbury Selectmen's Meeting Digest

Advisory Committee Asks Board to Consider Renegotiating Contract with Wheelabrator

By Edward J. Cooney

MILLBURY - Chairman Jude Cristo called the January 31 meeting to order at 7:00 p.m. Warrants were signed and minutes for the January 17 meeting were unanimously approved.

Town Fees

Administrative Assistant Earl Chase began his weekly report by requesting board member's views on increasing a variety of town fees. He noted that each member was provided with a list of fees and licenses under the board's control and comparisons of fees and licenses of other towns contiguous to Millbury.

Selectman Wynton Adams suggested that Chase review the information and submit a recommendation for the board's review. Adams' motion was approved unanimously.

Access to Town Counsel

Chase reported that the tax collector has requested access to town counsel for an opinion on the appropriateness of action she plans to take regarding 1988 taxes due but unpaid on a 59-acre piece of land that has been subdivided in West Millbury.

They approved her request on a 5-0 vote.

Resignations

Two letters were read, one a resignation from the Arts Council by Jean Peterson, and a second letter from Assessor Joseph Brady, announcing his resignation from the position of Sealer of Weights and Measures, a Civil Service position.

Brady also formally announced he would not be seeking re-election to the Board of Assessors at the end of his present term in April, 1989.

Sergeant's Position

At 7:18, Police Chief Ronald Stokowski appeared before the board for their approval to seek an exam for a sergeant's position with the possibility of making a provisional sergeant's promotion. Stokowski noted that the four current sergeants requested information on the issue.

According to Earl Chase, an exam could be requested, with a provisional appointment being made until the exam is administered and a list certified.

When questioned by Selectman Roland Lachance, Stokowski said that he would recommend appointing a provisional sergeant.

The board approved, 5-0.

On a motion by Adams, the request for a sergeant's exam was tabled until the board can establish the fact that there would be candidates for the exam.

Solid Waste Advisory Committee

At 7:30 p.m., Peter Boria, Chairman of the Solid Waste Advisory Committee, was present to speak to the board on an issue discussed at one of his committee's meetings concerning the possibility of re-negotiating the contract for solid waste disposal between the town and Wheelabrator-Millbury Inc.

Adams said there was no opener clause in the present contract but noted that if both parties, Wheelabrator and the Town, agreed to re-open, it might be possible. He told Boria that it must be kept in mind that, if substantial changes were made, there could be a burden placed upon the bond holders. He maintained that financial viability of the bond holders was an important factor to consider in contract renegotiations.

Cristo then noted that the overage on tonnage for last year does not have to be paid. He also noted that the 13,000 tons under the free tipping arrangement were not a cap, but that the town will pay for any tonnage over the free tipping limit. Chase said that the issue would be clarified in writing.

Frank Piscitelli, Chairman of the Board of Health, reported that the tonnage for January is well below the tonnage averages. "It is less than 800 tons," he said.

The meeting then returned to items under Old Business.

Feasibility Study

Chase reported that $1,000 was expended for a feasibility study on the Center School. He told the board that Town Planner Dave Hulseberg had made contact with the company but was not pleased with the response.

Cristo asked if the money had been recovered. Chase said that there was no answer to a registered letter sent to the company. Adams suggested a copy of the original contract be sent to Town Counsel to check on procedures for recovering the money in default. The board agreed to Adams' suggestion by consensus.

D.P.W. Study Committee

A brief discussion was held on the selection of members for the D.P.W. Study Committee. Cristo noted that there were eight volunteers. The discussion centered on whether there would be seven or eleven members. It was suggested by Cristo that members of the D.P.W. Council, which recommended the establishment of a D.P.W., consolidate that group with the volunteers for the study committee to restudy the issue. No action was taken on appointing members to the study committee. The matter was deferred until next week's meeting.

Budgets

The board voted unanimously to submit the selectmen's budget to the finance committee for review. Cristo noted that an increase of $1700, which is less than 2%, was "pretty much holding the line."

Under the Compulsory Insurance Budget, Chase said there were minor changes and a possible decrease of $15,000. He also told the board that "umbrella liability" was not available. He said that the present insurance agent has sought out coverage but has not found a company to handle umbrella liability.

Adams suggested that a search be continued. "I feel uncomfortable if we shrug it off because someone says none is available. We should be sure we do everything possible to seek out that source," said Adams.

Chase said he would follow up on the matter.

Lachance asked about the auto plate insurance and moved to have that coverage placed out to bid. The board concurred on a 5-0 vote.

Chase recommended approval of the budgeted amount for Compulsory Insurance. The board voted 5-0 to pass the budget on to the finance committee.

Financial Picture

At 8:00 p.m., Cristo recognized the 30 plus department heads who had gathered at the board's request to receive and give a general picture, prior to the Annual Town Meeting, on the Town's financial picture.

Cristo said that the upcoming bond issues of 2.5 million for capping the landfill and building the transfer station may indicate an impending fiscal crisis that everyone would have to look at. He noted that health insurance had jumped 30% or $270,000, as well. "We need to get a meeting of the minds tonight to see what we really are dealing with this year. We may have to bite the bullet and hold the line in some areas," he said.

Town Treasurer Dave Cofski noted that interest on town debts will increase $200,000 beginning July 1.

Town Auditor Roger Picard explained that the town has 1.2 million in "free cash" and should have $800,000 in the stabilization account by the time town meeting comes around.

It was also pointed out that the state will be paying towns semi-annually rather than quarterly, which may force communities to borrow funds.

Finance Committee Chairman Alan Marble said that budgets are coming in, with some being reasonable and some seeking substantial increases. "We're waiting for union contract negotiations," Marble said. "We will be looking hard at every budget to keep at reasonable levels."

Cristo then said, "We have to try to squeeze by for another year. The more we spend, the more we have to borrow."

Dave Cofski, referring to the last sewer contract, which has not been bonded, said there could be an increase in rates at 6.5 to 7%. They are normally 4.8 to 5.2%.

Assessor Harold Ostrowski said that last year the town was within $10,000 of the tax levy limit. He noted the same thing could happen again.

At 8:25, Cristo closed the discussion, thanking all the department heads for coming.

Rate Increase

George Buron, Sewerage Commission Chairman, spoke to the board requesting their approval for seeking an opinion from Town Counsel concerning a contract with the Blackstone Valley Sewerage

Abatement District. It was noted by Buron that rate increases were received this past January. According to Buron, the sewerage commission was to be notified no later than December, 1988. The board approved his request on a 5-0 vote.

Miscellaneous

Under Old Business, the board approved Stokowski's recommendation to appoint Sergeant Lincoln Barton and EMT Brian Roundtree as 1st Responders to the Emergency Medical Service Corporation.

The board deferred, until the next meeting, a decision on whether to make the building inspector's position full time.

A request for a one day unpaid leave for union business by Sergeant Glen Parath was approved unanimously.

Drainlayer's licenses for Domicile, Inc./Keyway, Inc. and Clarence Chase were also unanimously approved.

Billboards

Prior to adjourning, several pieces of mail were read. Selectman John Donnelly responded to a communication from Ackerly Communications by suggesting that Ackerly and the Providence Worcester Railroad be notified by letter that the Town of Millbury has a moratorium on billboards. Donnelly noted that it has been some time since the board has heard from them and it raises some concern as to what they may be planning.

Warrant Articles

The board moved on placing two articles on the town warrant for the annual town meeting.

An article to take the Police Chief's position out of Civil Service was approved on a 3-2 vote. Adams, Gauthier and Lachance in favor; Cristo and Donnelly opposed.

An article to establish a Department of Public Works with some language changes was also approved on a 5-0 vote for placement on the town warrant.

Beer and Wine License

Chase reported that a hearing has to be scheduled on the petition for a beer and wine license at 110 Elm Street. According to Chase, the ABC's decision remanded the matter back to the board of selectmen for reconsideration.

The meeting adjourned at 8:55 p.m.

During February and March, each District will hold final runoffs for the top 3 winners of each Cub Pack's Pinewood Derby races. The wooden cars are built by the boys with the help of their parents and then raced down a track at the pack meeting. The District winners in turn will be eligible to race for the council prize at the Scout Show on April 15.

The gigantic Scout Show on April 15 is the main event of the 1989 celebration. The show will be held at the Worcester Auditorium with the theme, "The Adventure Begins."

This event will begin with a parade and will include activities such as Pinewood Derby races, Indian Dances and awards ceremonies. Around The Town & Golden Agers Update

By Lillian C. Sheehan

Valentine's Day dates back to a Roman feast, Lupercalia. In ancient England, there were numerous rituals a person could do on this day to produce true love, such as pinning bay leaves to a pillow, then dreaming of one's love. Tradition holds that birds choose their mates on this day. As for St. Valentine, there was more than one martyr with that name, the most popular being a Roman priest who secretly married many young couples that the law forbade to wed.

Then there is the legend that has it that the Valentine got its name from a youthful priest in Rome who had been imprisoned as a Christian. He thought of his parishioners and sought a way to strengthen their faith and to assure them that he was praying for them.

Just within reach of his cell window, he noted a cluster of violets. He picked the heart shaped leaves and, with a pin, pricked the words: "Remember your Valentine." It is not known how he got the flowery message to his parishioners. (He probably bribed a jailor, but a more fanciful version says he entrusted the message to a dove.)

On following days, he sent other messages and thus started a delightful custom which is enthusiastically followed to this day. To those you love and remember - send Valentine messages.

146 Puzzle Begins to Take Shape

If you think the alternatives surrounding the proposed Mass Pike Interchange/146 widening resemble a jigsaw puzzle, you're right; but, the pieces are starting to come together. On Thursday, February 2, at Sacred Heart Church in Worcester, officials from the Massachusetts Department of Public Works announced a reduction in the number of alternatives presented at a public meeting in Millbury on November 10 from 18 to ten.

At the November 10 meeting, Thomas Hession, Project Manager for the Massachusetts Department of Public Works and Gail Scott and Roland Lavalee of the consulting firm of Howard, Needles, Tammen, and Bergendorff explained the specifics of a variety of options for upgrading the interchange of Rte. 146 and Rte. 20 and for the

Turn to 146 on Page 11

"Option 2" shows that drivers travelling Rte. 146 could access Rte. 20 or the Mass. Pike either by taking a right at the intersection of Rte. 146 and Access Road 1 (if travelling south) or by travelling across Rte. 146 via a loop which will cross Rte. 146 (if traveling north). Once on Access Road 1, drivers could choose to access Rte. 20 or continue on to the toll booths, from which they could head east on the Pike or west on the Pike via a loop which would cross the highway.

Drivers travelling east and west on Rte. 20 could access Rte. 146 or the Mass. Pike by way of Access Road 2 which would bring them to Rte. 146 if they turned left onto Access Road 1, or to the toll booths if they turned right on Access Road 1.

construction of a Massachusetts Turnpike interchange, improvements of Rte. 20, the widening of a section of Rte. 146 leading to Worcester, and improvements of the interchange onto I-290 at Brosnihan Square.

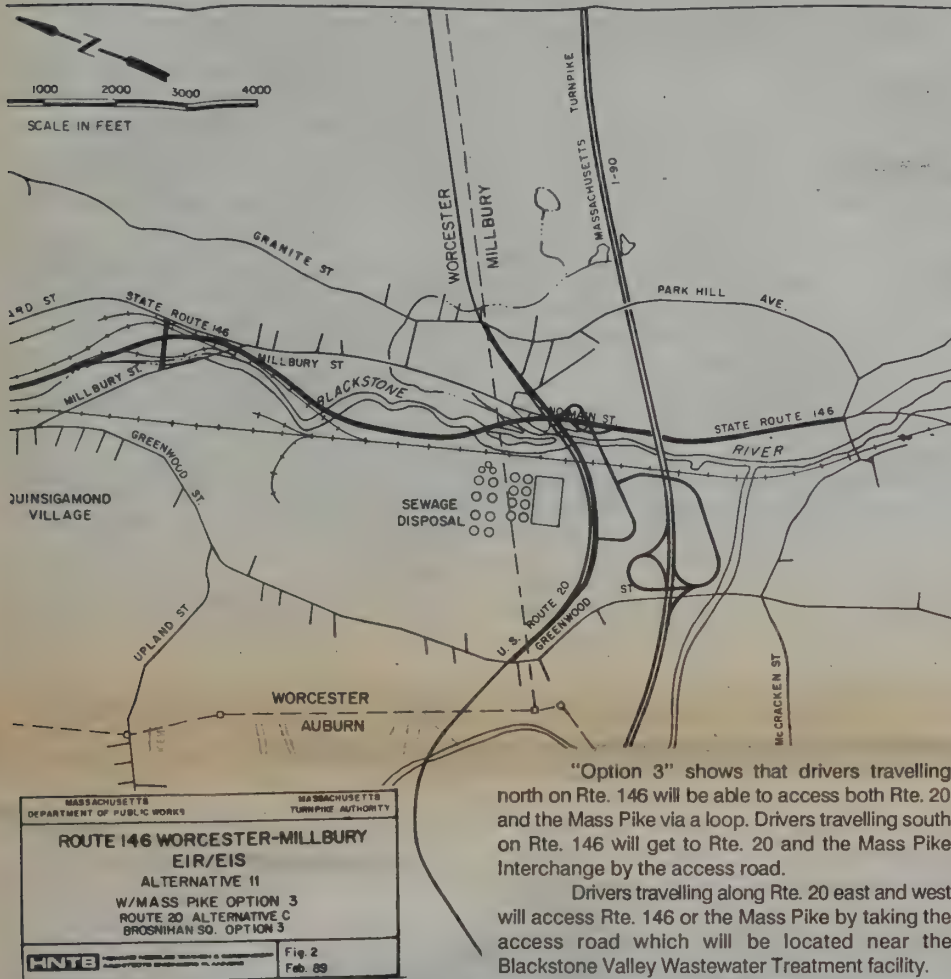

Alternatives presented at the Millbury meeting consisted of the following: six relocation alternatives for Rte. 146, three widenings of Rte. 146, four interchange alternatives for the Mass. Pike, three alignments of Rte. 20 between Greenwood Street and Park Hill Avenue, and 2 options for Brosnihan Square.

The February 2 meeting revealed two options for the Mass Pike Interchange, two alternatives for the Route 20 widening, three for widening Route 146, and three for the I-290/

Brosnihan Square Interchange.

The Worcester meeting began with welcoming remarks from Ellen DiGeronimo, Associate Commissioner of the Massachusetts Department of Public Works, who said that co-operation and coordination are the hallmarks of this project. She explained that local and state officials, as well as residents, have been involved in several different task forces designed to gather opinions and advice from a broad spectrum of people who will be affected, directly or indirectly, by the project.

"Option 3" shows that drivers travelling north on Rte. 146 will be able to access both Rte. 20 and the Mass Pike via a loop. Drivers travelling south on Rte. 146 will get to Rte. 20 and the Mass Pike Interchange by the access road.

Drivers travelling along Rte. 20 east and west will access Rte. 146 or the Mass Pike by taking the access road which will be located near the Blackstone Valley Wastewater Treatment facility.

Lavalee said that either interchange option could be combined with either of the widening options and further stated that any of the options for any one section of the project could be combined with any other combination of options.

The engineering consultants will now begin an analysis of the impacts that the remaining alternatives will have on the environment. A preliminary document will be available in five or six months. This preliminary document will be reviewed by the department and will be followed, hopefully in October or November of '89, by a more formal public hearing where a draft of the environmental impact study will be revealed. The final alternatives will be chosen after the hearing, and from there, the final impact study will be prepared. The project will then go into the design phase, right of way taking, and construction.

DiGeronimo explained that, while the variety of alternatives presented in Millbury may have been confusing because of their number, they were an important part of the opening process in that the presentation was designed to stimulate reactions to the alternatives. She explained that some of the new changes were the direct result of suggestions which the department received from residents. She also said that the project is on target.

Oral History Workshop

BLACKSTONE: The Blackstone Valley National Heritage Corridor Commission and the Massachusetts Foundation for Humanities and Public Policy are sponsoring an oral history workshop on February 25, at the Blackstone-Millville Regional High School in Blackstone from 1-4 p.m. The workshop is designed to professionally train interested residents, educators, historians, and others in the art, techniques, and uses of oral history as a teaching and research tool. It will examine the limitations as well as the practical side of oral history in curriculum development, local history programs, for public history projects and publications.

The workshop will be conducted by Beth Enson of the Oral History Center at Cambridge. The Center has conducted similar workshops on a wide range of social and cultural topics of contemporary importance.

One focus of the workshop will be "Shifting Gears: The Changing Meaning of Work in the Twentieth Century Blackstone Valley." This interdisciplinary project is a year long study designed to explore and enrich local histories in association with Heritage State Park development in Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

A nominal fee of $10 per person or $25 per school district, is being charged to cover the costs of the program. Reservations are recommended. For further information, contact Doug Reynolds, Blackstone Valley National Heritage Corridor Commission, P.O. Box 34, Uxbridge, MA 01569, (508) 278-7322 or Beth Enson, Oral History Workshop, 186 1/2 Hampshire Street, Cambridge, MA 02139 (617) 661-8288.

The Heart Saving Diet

WORCESTER - Do you know how to save your heart from Coronary Heart Disease? Since February is heart month, take a minute to consider your risk and take some healthy eating tips to heart.

Your chances of developing heart disease are increased if you smoke, have a high blood cholesterol level, have high blood pressure or if you have diabetes. If you have a family history of heart disease, or are overweight and don't exercise, you are also prone to this disease.

The 1988 National Cholesterol Education Conference recommends keeping your blood cholesterol level under 200 to reduce your chance of heart disease. It is just as important to know your HDL and LDL cholesterol levels. Half of all American adults have levels over the healthy level of 200 mg/dl.

Kim Larson, Registered Dietitian and member of the Central Massachusetts Dietetic Association suggests the following heart-smart tips to keep you healthy:

1. Eat less fat, especially saturated fats; they raise blood cholesterol levels.
2. Use reduced-fat, reduced-calorie products like light sour cream and mayonnaise. It's easy to do, try one new taste at a time.
3. Choose low-fat dairy products such as skim or 1% milk, low-fat cheese like low-fat cottage cheese and part-skim mozzarella. Substitute evaporated skim milk for cream in your home recipes.
4. Eat lean cuts of red meat such as round steak, sirloin, tenderloin, and 10%-fat ground beef. Trim off ALL the visible fat before cooking. Remember, the amount you eat counts, too. Keep your portions to 6 oz. total per day and you'll be getting all the protein you need. A deck of cards is about the same size as 3 oz. of meat.

5. Remove the skin from poultry before eating.

6. Read food labels and ingredient lists. Watch for saturated fats like lard, beef fat, palm kernel oil, coconut oil, butter.

7. Eat more soluble fiber that is found in oatmeal, oat bran, beans, peas, lentils and fresh fruits. This type of fiber helps to lower blood cholesterol.

8. Exercise more. Exercise increases your levels of HDL cholesterol. The higher your HDL, the more you are protected against heart disease.

9. Try preparing foods by boiling, baking, microwaving, or stir-frying. These are low-fat ways to keep the fat out and nutrition in.

10. Use less fats in cooking and in spreads at the table.

11. Eat more complex carbohydrates like breads, cereals, potatoes, vegetables, and fruits. They don't have any fat!

12. Know that these foods are very high in cholesterol and will contribute to raising your blood cholesterol levels: organ meats, bacon, egg yolks, and butter. All foods coming from an animal are high in saturated fat and cholesterol. Substitute 2 egg whites in recipes calling for one egg.

13. Choose dessert alternatives like ice milk, sorbet, sherbet, low-fat frozen yogurt, angel food cake or fruit.

14. Eat fewer high fat snacks such as nuts, potato chips, and crackers; they are high in fat and therefore calories. Instead, try unbuttered popcorn, pretzels, breadsticks, bagels, fresh fruit or raw vegetables.

15. Select processed foods with the least amount of fat. If you need a luncheon meat, choose one that's labelled 97% fat-free.

Macular Degeneration: Major Cause of Central Vision Loss

BOSTON - The major cause of central or reading vision loss in persons over 50 in the United States is macular degeneration. While macular degeneration rarely causes total or "black" blindness, it frequently causes "legal blindness." Most macular degeneration is related to aging and is irreversible, but many cases can be helped with laser treatment if caught early. The following information is provided by the New England Ophthalmological Society in order to aid in public education about macular degeneration.

HOW MACULAR DEGENERATION AFFECTS SIGHT

The macula, the tiny central portion of the eye's retina, is responsible for finely detailed vision and must be healthy to allow reading and good "straight ahead" vision. If there is degeneration or damage to the macula, the person may lose central vision, but the peripheral retina still provides side vision. For this reason, persons with age related macular degeneration usually have "useful" vision.

Age related macular degeneration starts with the appearance of drusen (dry) or aging spots on the retina. An advanced and serious form results when degenerative change leads to the growth of new abnormal blood vessels which leak or rupture readily (called "wet" age related macular degeneration). Blood and leaking fluid causes scarring and permanent damage. If caught early, this type of problem is helped by laser treatment, which can seal off the abnormal blood vessels and retard progression of damage.

SYMPTOMS

Macular degeneration can cause different symptoms in different people. Sometimes only one eye loses vision while the other eye continues to see well for many years. If both eyes are affected, however, reading and close-up work may become extremely difficult. Special devices and lenses known as low vision aids can maximize the use of healthy remaining retina, thus allowing the person with this type of macular degeneration to lead a relatively normal life.

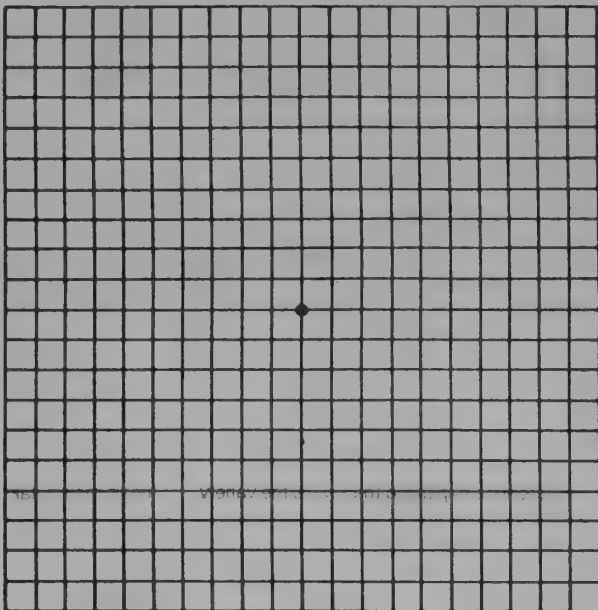

Macular degeneration can be detected and diagnosed early if periodic eye examinations are part of health care. Early detection is important since people may not realize their vision is impaired. Having your eyes checked is especially appropriate if other family members have a history of retinal problems. For patients with macular degeneration, early diagnosis by an ophthalmologist may prevent further damage or aid the individual in making a visual adjustment with low vision aids.

AT HOME TEST FOR MACULAR DEGENERATION

A simple test for macular degeneration is an Amsler grid. By testing one eye at a time, distortion or irregularity of the lines of the grid may suggest a macular problem previously unsuspected. Persons over 50 should have regular eye examinations by an ophthalmologist, especially if there is a family history of eye problems.

This is an AMSLER GRID. It is a simple but sensitive device for testing macular vision. As the macula is the most critical part of the retina, responsible for reading and seeing fine detail, any changes noted may be important and should be reported. Lack of change is reassuring. This test should be done on a weekly basis, following these instructions:

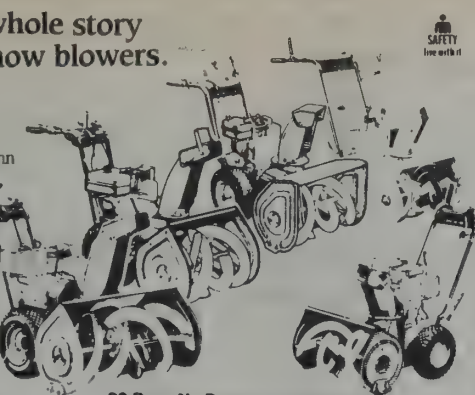

1. Hold the grid at reading distance using reading glasses if you wear them.
2. COVER ONE EYE and CONCENTRATE ON THE CENTRAL DOT.
3. Without looking away from the dot, observe the lines for any distortion, missing parts, or irregularities.
4. Keep a record of changes.
5. Test the other eye.

Assessment Begun on Higher Education Needs

UXBRIDGE - A key state higher education official told local advocates of a Blackstone Valley Community College recently that he has begun a needs assessment and feasibility study of the Valley's higher education needs. Dr. Peter M. Mitchell, Vice Chancellor of the Board of Regents of Higher Education for Policy, Planning and Research, met last week with the Blackstone Valley Community College Task Force at the Uxbridge Inn.

The Task Force was established by State Representative Richard T. Moore (D-Uxbridge) last Spring, and is co-chaired by Gerald Gaudette Jr. of Whitinsville and Jack Roberts of Uxbridge. The group of local civic, business, and educational leaders has been advocating the establishment of a Blackstone Valley Community College located in the Northbridge-Uxbridge area.

Mitchell was urged by several task force members to go beyond looking at census figures and consider the growth under way in the Valley. Mitchell responded that while Valley graduating classes will decrease until 1994, the percentage of high school graduates seeking college is increasing and the establishment of a local community college would accelerate that trend.

Task Force member Gerald Skeean suggested that the study should look at the high number of approved subdivision plans in Valley towns that will mean increasing numbers of college applicants in the Valley. Roberts added that Uxbridge, and other Valley towns, are experiencing a very substantial increase in students completing their high school GED equivalency course, adding even more students to the pool of those interested in an accessible higher education.

Mitchell suggested that a compromise may be available between those who have advocated a branch of Quinsigamond Community College, and those who favored an independent, free-standing Blackstone Valley Community College. He said that three existing community colleges are planning to each have a second full campus: Middlesex Community College is planning to have a Lowell campus; Northern Essex Community College is planning a Lawrence Campus; and Bunker Hill Community College is planning a Chelsea Campus.

The Vice Chancellor explained that a Blackstone Valley Campus of Quinsigamond Community College would have its own classrooms, library, and student services, but would share the same president and board of trustees. In response to questioning, he added that under such a plan several Valley residents could be added to Quinsigamond's Trustees. The campus concept would be more than a branch since it would offer a full range of courses and services. He added, however, that the study now underway would look at all of the options suggested by the Task Force.

Mitchell said that he would appoint someone immediately to conduct the needs assessment study from funds available through the Higher Education

Capital Outlay Budget. He said that he wants this researcher to continue to work closely with the Valley Task Force throughout the study.

Millbury Wastewater Treatment Facility Recognized For Operations and Maintenance Excellence

BOSTON - The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's New England Regional Office recently announced winners of the fourth annual Operations & Maintenance (O&M) Excellence Awards.

Five municipal treatment plants received awards. For Massachusetts, the winner was the Millbury Wastewater Treatment Facility. Plant Superintendent Bradford Lange accepted the award which was presented at the New England Water Pollution Control Association's annual meeting on January 25 at the Marriott Copley Place Hotel in Boston.

"The awards recognize the staff of publicly owned wastewater treatment plants for their commitment to clean water through continued outstanding operation and maintenance, effective financial management, ongoing operator training, and compliance with Clean Water Act requirements," said EPA Deputy Regional Administrator Paul G. Keough.

According to Keough, the awards are intended to heighten public awareness of the contribution of publicly owned wastewater treatment facilities to preserve clean water and encourage public support for effective wastewater treatment.

Because there are several hundred or more different kinds of fees and charges, the legislature, four years ago, shifted the authority to approve fee rates, without legislative approval, to the Executive Branch.

"The fee increase process is now out of hand," Kollios said. Recently, he was successful in delaying a fee increase which would have raised the hourly ice rental for youth hockey associations from $65 per hour to $90 per hour. "Legislative hearings and approval are necessary for any future fee increases. There must be input from those affected by any fee or charge," he said.

Regarding the Governor's tax package, Kollios said, "This proposal must come before the legislature before any movement is accomplished. I have a commitment from House Ways and Means Chairman Richard Voke that additional serious cuts and curbing of waste will be investigated before any taxes are considered. I agree, and state further my opposition to any increase in the gasoline tax. Motorists' costs in Massachusetts are already excessive," he concluded.

Millbury Arts Council Accepting Applications for Spring Funding Cycle

MILLBURY - Applications are now being accepted for the Spring Funding Cycle of the Millbury Arts Council. Applications are reviewed only in May and November.

The present application forms are new and will be available at the Public Library and the Town Hall.

Anyone in possession of application forms obtained in the past is asked to destroy them since they are now obsolete and will not be considered.

The new application forms must be typed and two copies made, besides the original. Upon completion, applications may be deposited in the box at the Town Hall designated for Millbury Arts Council or given to a member of the Council.

Applications must be received no later than Monday, March 13. On this date, the Millbury Arts Council will hold an open meeting. Applicants are invited to attend this meeting and present their requests in person. The exact time and place will be announced later.

Record Growth and Activity for Millbury Credit Union

MILLBURY - Millbury Credit Union president Robert L. LeClaire reported that Credit Union members earned a record $3,779,825 in dividends in 1988, an increase of 16% over the previous year.

According to LeClaire, the Credit Union's assets grew to more than $62 million, an increase of $8.7 million and a new record for the institution which was founded in 1934. He also reported that home mortgages grew by 22% and all other loans, including home equity, home improvement, personal, auto, HEAT, and HELP loans, increased by 27%.

Executive vice president and treasurer Richard N. Kenary emphasized that the Millbury Credit Union benefits from membership in the National Credit Union Administration (NCUA), the federal government's agency which insures credit unions, much as the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) insures banks. With the combination of federal insurance and membership in the Massachusetts Share Insurance Corporation, Kenary said, all deposits at MCU are insured in full.

Kenary also said that the installation of automatic teller machines (ATMs) is imminent, and that the system will be affiliated with Yankee 24. Also, the Credit Union plans to offer Mastercard and VISA before the end of the year.

Directors elected with terms expiring in January, 1992, were Arthur H. Despard, Kenary, and Dr. James Paltos, all of Millbury, and LeClaire, who lives in Sutton.

Kollios Files Legislation on Approval of Fees

BOSTON - Representative Paul Kollios (D-Millbury) has filed legislation for the 1989 session, which would give back to the legislature the authority to approve all fees and charges imposed by the state.

Selectman Wally Johnson, a member of the committee, said the money is needed to reimburse people for travel. "When they don't have to spend their own money to do so, people will be encouraged to travel to see other systems," Johnson said. The article passed unanimously.

Rezoning to Business

Articles 9 through 14 were approved by voters at the October 1988 Annual Town Meeting but, due to a defect in notice of the public hearing, were rejected by the Attorney General.

Article 9 requested rezoning of two parcels owned by Robert and Linda Rucci and Richard and Virginia Cofske from residential to business. The parcels are located on Rte. 146 west of 146 and north of Marble Road. Passed unanimously.

Site Plan Review Amendment

Article 10 requested an additional requirement to the zoning bylaw that triggers the site plan review process. Selectwoman Connor explained that this amendment would require a site plan review even when there is no structural change, because other changes may also have a great affect on the site. The article was sponsored by the Board of Selectmen.

Planning Board Chairman Craig Ferrell said that the Planning Board held a public hearing on this matter and recommended passage of the article. The Finance committee also recommended it, and it passed unanimously.

Zoning Bylaw

Article 11 was a housekeeping article which clarified footnote numbers in a zoning bylaw table. Ferrell said there is no substantive change, but he noted that the table is presently confusing. The article passed on a unanimous vote.

Open Space Zoning

Article 12 sought to reorganize a table in the zoning bylaws, adding minimum "open space" requirements in business and industrial districts as well as a new definition of "open space." Ferrell made a motion to indefinitely postpone the article, stating, "There was much discussion at the public hearing; therefore, the Planning Board wants to discuss this more, especially because it puts great pressure on some lots."

According to Town Planner Ted Brovitz, "We need more time to develop definitive site plan requirements, such as parking space requirements, which are too stringent relative to other towns."

Strieby and Johnson argued that the article should be passed because it was approved at the October town meeting.

However, LaBonte said, "The article has serious flaws, and we should listen to the town engineer and the town planner we've hired who now have serious doubts."

The article was indefinitely postponed with "nays" from the finance committee only.

New Definition of "Structure"

Article 13 sought to clarify the definition of "structure" in the bylaws and to add swimming pools larger than 4,000 gallons to the bylaw. The Planning Board reported that they held a public hearing on this matter on January 9, and recommended passage. It passed on a required 2/3 vote; 64 for, 3 against.

Amend General Bylaws

Article 14 passed unanimously with no discussion. It changes the zoning bylaws to control new and used cars, boats, and motorcycle dealers by requiring a special permit from the Board of Selectmen.

New Bylaw for Camps

Article 15, passed with few "nays," amends the General Bylaws by creating a new bylaw (#18) which regulates "recreation camps, overnight camps or cabins, motels, or mobile home parks." The new bylaw requires an annual $50 fee for each original or renewal license.

The meeting adjourned at 9:30 p.m.

This film presentation will be the Disney classic, not available in video, SNOW WHITE. Pizza, from Millbury House of Pizza, and root beer will be served at intermission. Registration is necessary.

From February 14-17, the library will once again be registering children from grades five and up for its 4-H babysitting course. This eight-week course will be held Wednesday each week, starting in March.
